British Values

Tolerance and Respect

27th January 2025

Today, we're going to talk about two very important values: tolerance and respect. These are part of the British Values that help us live happily together, no matter how different we are.

Along came a different

What was the key message in the story?

Being different is the
BEST THING EVER!

Although the shapes were different, they worked together to create something beautiful by showing tolerance and respect.

Being different is the
BEST THING EVER!

Time for reflection

Every one of us is different, just like the shapes in the story. Our differences make us special, but when we work together with tolerance and respect, we can create something amazing. Tolerance and respect are like glue - they help keep us all connected and make our community stronger.

Let's show tolerance and respect this week

- Inviting someone new to join your game.
- Listening carefully when someone is speaking.
- Helping a classmate if they need support."

Further learning

- We will be talking about this more in our classes this week
